PLANS FOR PACIFIC WAR

It has all been kept very hush-hush, but top army officials have made a vitally important decision on war production after Germany's defeat.

Original war production schedules called for a 40 per cent cutback after Germany caves in, permitting a vast reconversion program and the early production of automobiles, refrigerators, radios and other goods.

However, the army plus WPBigs have now decided to keep the war machine rolling full tilt, not cutting back any but a few items until Japan is defeated.

Behind the vital decision is an important new plan to speed victory in the Pacific. Confidential war department surveys disclosed that it would take over a year to return European veterans, together with their equipment, much of it geared for winter rather than tropical fighting. Allied shipping shortages would make it a long job to crate, sort, repair and re-ship heavy equipment from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

In addition, the army survey disclosed that a lot of European equipment will be obsolete for Pacific fighting; would have to be rebuilt, taking valuable time. Instead, the new plan calls for bringing the men back at once, issuing them new equipment specifically designed for Far Eastern combat. Later, the army will bring back overseas war gear and use it for Pacific replacements.

This should speed final blows against Japan, and shorten the Far Eastern war by many months.

As a result, 1945 production schedules will probably be a billion dollars higher than those of 1944. The war department, which had a pile of telegrams two feet high canceling war contracts to be sent out the day Germany is licked, has now culled through them and may only cancel a few dozen orders.

MACARTHUR AND MARINES

The boys in the Pacific long have known about the rivalry between General MacArthur and the U. S. navy. Many are the wisecracks about MacArthur and the U. S. marines, land army of the navy. However, in only one case so far as is known, has MacArthur ever come up against one of these jokes face to face.

It happened on one of the Philippine islands a few days after it was taken and when MacArthur was inspecting a battery of marine artillery. Solemnly, he passed from gun to gun, making no comment.

Then suddenly as he came to one gun, he turned on the marine lieutenant in command and let loose the most terrific dressing-down that young officer ever had received. The air was smoky with expletives. The lieutenant at first stood bewildered. The gun was carefully polished. Everything was in place. Then he looked a little closer. Beside the gun an enlisted man had placed a sign. It read:

"With the help of God and a few marines, MacArthur retakes the Philippines."

The lieutenant thought at first that he would be busted. But several days passed and nothing happened. He is now back in the United States and the story can be told.

INSURANCE LOBBY

The insurance lobby is headed for trouble regarding its bill to exempt insurance companies from the Sherman anti-trust act. If the lobbyists aren't careful they will get a White House veto.

The bill passed the senate in a form which met with all-round approval. But in the house, the insurance lobby sharpened its ax and quietly tacked on some amendments which will not be acceptable either to the White House or, probably, to a majority of the senate. Chief effect of the amendments was to make it impossible to revive the anti-trust act regarding insurance companies without a special act of congress.

Fair-minded Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, who was quite willing to give the insurance companies a reasonable compromise, will fight this extra grab to the end. So will a great many of his colleagues.

CAPITAL CHAFF

General Franco's controlled Spanish press has been using the same propaganda line as Hitler regarding the recent Big Three conference.

Despite the fact that American diplomatic relations with Lithuania hang by a thread, the Lithuanian delegation celebrated Lithuanian Independence Day even after the Big Three conference.

The war department's G-2 or military intelligence is being reorganized again, partly as a result of failures to spot Nazi troop concentrations preparing for the bulge attack.

The Mexico City confab is the most sorrowful Pan-American conference in history for Dr. Leo S. Rowe, benign, longtime director of the Pan American union. This is the first important Pan-Am parley held outside the confines of his union. Dr. Rowe says: "I cannot speak, but my heart is running over."

"School Days" Theme of Club's Men's Night

"School days, school days, Dear old golden rule day—" was the thought uppermost in the minds of the hundred people who attended the annual "Men's Night" of the Campbell Country Woman's club on Monday evening.

Assembling for a six-thirty dinner, served and planned by Mesdames Jack Murdock, A. D. Rice, Lowell Benson, Ira Grim, S. N. Hedegard and Klaude Blocke, the guests were seated at artistically decorated tables. These table decorations kept one in full remembrance of the evening's theme, School Days, with the clever little red school houses, surrounded with greenery. The napkins at each plate, folded like paper hats typical of school days furthered the decorative theme. Placed about the room in settings of artistically arranged greenery were large globes of the world and clever paper dolls were used as curtain trims. Mrs. Raymond Bishop, general chairman of the evening, was responsible for the construction of the paper dolls and school houses which were sold at the close of the evening. Others in charge of the decorative scheme and table arrangements were Mesdames Howard J. Smith, Georgene Kidward, H. W. Jensen, Milton Robertson and Frank Blair.

Before enjoying the generous home cooked dinner the group joined in the pledge of allegiance to the flag and the singing of the Dooology. The "monitors" of the evening then served the guests and at the conclusion of the meal Mrs. Paul Becker, as "teacher" assumed the role of mistress of ceremonies.

Two Campbell grammar school teachers, Miss Emma Borzone and Miss Patricia Matranga, dressed in costumes of the late eighties, entertained for an appreciative audience. Miss Borzone gave several humorous readings and Miss Matranga sang three old fashioned songs. Mrs. David Sanders assisted the entertainment arrangements in her piano accompaniments.

In the grand march that followed the program there was much hilarity — school boys in knee-length jeans, beanies and sweaters accompanied their partners dressed in pinafores and whose heads flaunted either enormous hair bows or demure little sun bonnets, which were fringed with rows of bobbing curls. George Jeffers as "Peck's Bad Boy," kept the school "boys and girls" heartily amused during the entire evening with his antics. Prizes for the costumes were awarded Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Purmort as the best dressed school day sweethearts and to the Duncan Twins, Mrs. Emily and Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, for the best dressed school girls.

With a thought for the tomorrow's work "teacher" said at nine o'clock that the festivities should come to a close and it was a very happy and thoroughly relaxed group that joined in the singing of "Goodnight Ladies" and "Goodnight Gentlemen." This will be an evening long to be

Pundita Circle Holds Regular Meeting Feb. 28

Pundita Circle met on Feb. 28 for their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. E. E. Booker, with Mrs. W. F. Mitchell and Mrs. B. O. Curry assisting the hostess.

During the business meeting the club voted to give $10 to the Red Cross, and Mrs. Carboni gave a report of the County Federation meeting recently held at the Adobe in Santa Clara.

Opening the program hour, Miss Claire Booker, accompanied by her mother, gave a very pleasing rendition of two violin solos, "Csertas" by Monti and "Stars in My Eyes" by Fritz Kreisler. Then the hostess introduced Mrs. Roberts of Los Gatos who gave a very interesting talk on Early California history, dealing with the pastoral, social and private life during the time between the occupation of the Spanish and the arrival of the people from the eastern states.

Refreshments and a social hour ended a very pleasant afternoon.

The Red Cross meeting will be held March 7 with Mrs. M. E. Purmort.

F.F.A. Chapter Receives Letter Of Congratulation

The following letter which is self explanatory is naturally a matter of pride to the boys of the F. F. A. and their instructor and adviser M. C. Ralston.

The writer was the speaker at the dedication of the Honor Roll on Feb. 22.

Mr. W. H. Weeks
Parade Director
Old Settlers Reunion
Campbell, California

My Dear Mr. Weeks:

May I take this opportunity to congratulate you, and through you the boys and girls who were responsible for the Future Farmers float. In my mind this particular float was outstanding as it depicted so clearly the activities carried on in the school by the boys and girls who are to be the Future Farmers of tomorrow. It was educational in the extreme and I am sure that it will serve to acquaint the citizenry with the fine work carried on by the members of the faculty and school board. It was indeed unique and novel and I am very happy to have been privileged to see it.

I shall keep in remembrance my fine day spent with you good people and particularly the cordiality and hospitality which was apparent all through the day. With kind personal regards, I remain,

Yours Very Truly,
Byrl F. Babcock

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. James Tackitt of Gilman avenue, a girl, Shirley Jean, Feb. 23, at O'Connor sanitarium.

The name of Miss Lois Gardner of San Jose, one of the Campbell high school faculty was accidentally omitted from the names of those who participated in the party at the E. R. Kennedy home last week.

Local Legion Post Given Service Award

Last weeks meeting of the local American Legion saw an honor bestowed upon the post by the national organization. The citation for equaling the original membership was presented by Syd Brannaman of Palo Alto, vice-commander of the 13th district. This award, "For Distinguished Service" is sent from the national headquarters annually to some few posts which enroll their entire previous year's membership.

Called upon to speak a few words at this time was Past Vice-Commander Larry Casaletto of Los Gatos, through whose efforts Campbell post got off to such a good start. He termed it "his baby" and was happy to again visit such a growing group.

Doubly gratifying results from the Old Settlers' Day program and dedication was the letter received from Assistant State Controller Beryl Babcock, who was speaker at the honor roll dedication on Washington's birthday. He particularly stressed the importance of the float entered by the Future Farmers, and stated this was one of the most impressive demonstrations he ever witnessed. With some dozen or more "old settlers" facing him, the future settlers' paraded by in gratifying style. These Future Farmers are the ones to take over from the original settlers and carry on the traditions of this productive valley. The letter was ordered sent to the high school to be posted on the bulletin board.

At least one local boy will represent this area in Boys' State at Sacramento. The post sponsored and financed one boy, and it was assured a second one would be sent by the local Kiwanis club as in the past.

Bill Weeks made a fine preview talk on the light opera play to be given on March 9, to raise funds for a ventilating system in the grammar school auditorium. Thanks largely to his efforts and the generosity of the advertisers, a fine program has been arranged, which will add several hundred dollars extra to the fund. All services for this entertainment are donated, including the cast from the San Jose Light Opera association.

Lacking only an American Flag to fly from the recently dedicated honor roll at the high school grounds, Dan Clark offered to procure a suitable one and present it to the post with his compliments. Tony Ferro, not to be outdone, volunteered his time in raising and lowering it daily.

Preceding the meeting, a fine pot-luck dinner was enjoyed by many of the members, joining with the auxiliary ladies at the Woman's club house.

On March 14, the Campbell chapter of the F. F. A. will meet with the Campbell American Legion post.

Grammar School Students Entertain Kiwanis Club

William C. Henley was chairman for Tuesday's Kiwanis meeting at which students of the Campbell Union grammar school entertained.

A large choral group of youngsters sang three numbers very creditably and we bid fair to hear more from them as they advance in the school system. The voices, as a whole, were true and of excellent quality. Their director Miss Wilkinson is to be complimented.

Another group portrayed folk dances and they seemed to enjoy their numbers very much, exhibiting good rhythm and timing. Mr. Tindall acted as their director.

Visitors present were Ralph Husted, George Tucker of San Francisco club, George Schrader, Bill Hendricks, James Arends our newest member, was welcomed.

Next week the Campbell Quizz Kids will be featured with Jack Murdock, chairman.

THE SPUR

It isn't the splendid slogans nor the heart catching posters of an appealing kid in uniform that spurs us into giving the Red Cross more in its fund drive this year than we intended—and certainly more than we can easily afford.

It's not re-reading the amazing detail of the Red Cross program for the help and comfort of men and women in the service of Uncle Sam—a seemingly endless story of units all over the world, easing wartime burdens wherever they can and shouldering new burdens as the battle tempo mounts.

It's not the resounding words of Chief of Staff General Marshall, urging us to dig deep, nor even Admiral Nimitz' assurance that "the work of the Red Cross is a major contribution to victory."

What stirs us to giving, and giving generously, is the information we get from the lads who know—who have been to battle and back again. When a boy who knows what the inside of a muddy foxhole looks like, or the feel of a litter under his broken body, says the Red Cross is important to him, we know it is. When a young fellow, propped up on a hospital pillow or waiting, lonely and maybe a little scared, at a foreign base camp, writes that the kindly hand of the Red Cross helped him over a hurdle or two—or helped his young wife here at home—we know that's important.

The will to help, however we can, is spurred hardest by the simple stories we've heard—multiplied by a million or so—of those who have needed help and got it, along with a smile and a word of cheer, from the Red Cross. That is the spur that jogs our hearts and tells us to match, if we can, the generosity of those boys who may benefit a little by our gesture.

JUST PLAIN STUPID

The science department of Time Magazine recently published graphs illustrating a precipitous drop in the last few years in the number of Ph. D.'s granted by United States universities in four basic sciences. They were termed startling signposts on the road to "scientific bankruptcy." They reflect the shortsighted manpower policy of our government, the effects of which are already being felt seriously in the medical profession. The training of doctors has been reduced dangerously.

An unquestioned authority commenting on the inadequacy of present internship, states that: "Many institutions, in their desire to accede to the wishes of the Army and Navy, have arranged their internships so that an experience of no more than two or three months in surgery is obtained. According to the regulations, two-thirds of all the male internes—approximately 4,000—every nine months will enter active military service with, at the most, no more than a few months' experience in surgery. It is these eager but inadequately trained young officers who will serve at battalion aid stations, where the wounded are first brought and where expert surgical judgment is often needed."

No nation, if it wishes to lead the way toward a better civilization, can afford to neglect the sciences as we now are doing.

BUSINESS IS THE BULWARK

It is a plain fact that California business and California industry are going to be expected to supply the principal portion of the planning, the initiative, the capital and the jobs which will pull the state onto a secure post-war footing. Consequently, it is both fair and wise to consider carefully any major public proposals in the light of their effect in those quarters, as well as elsewhere.

After the war, Lieutenant Governor Houser recently pointed out, California, which has become highly industrialized during the war period, will have to compete in eastern markets with its products already at a disadvantage because of the long haul to market and income taxes not imposed by our competitor states. Further, he warned, California would be placed at "an almost prohibitive disadvantage" by the proposed one and one-half per cent compulsory health insurance tax on employers.

At the Legislative hearings on the question it has been testified that wage earners already are much concerned over their lengthening payroll deductions for union dues, federal withholding taxes, unemployment insurance, social security, et cetera. It is well, before making a final decision on so important an issue that the Legislature weigh the evidence submitted by business, too.

Governor Warren believes his compulsory insurance plan will cost about $160,000,000 a year. The California Medical Association says the cost will be nearer $260,000,000. And in a general plea for tax cuts instead of tax increases, the State Chamber of Commerce declares that the present enormous general fund surplus of $288,000,000 already is inviting "an unhealthy spending pace which will cause serious tax troubles in the years to come."

In any socially conscious community, real social advances are vitally important. Even more important to California today is the need to establish now, before the reconversion period is upon us, every safeguard against experimental dissipation of public funds, and to make secure every business bulwark against the times ahead—which no realistic person expects to continue soft or easy for anybody among us.

CONSERVATION WEEK

In these days when the United States is pouring out its resources in support of the fight for a decent world, the word "conservation" may seem somewhat out of tune with the demands of the time. Yet, as we know, conservation was never more important to the Nation than it is now.

Rationing is a means of conserving our food supply, gasoline, and rubber. Paper, tin and metal conservation are vital phases of the war effort. In Europe conservation is a matter of life and death. Waste of food or fuel is generally punishable with severe penalties—if anyone has enough food or fuel to waste.

Conservation is really common sense. It should apply to every phase of our lives. We should conserve our time, opportunity, and especially our money. The dollars saved today will be on hand for the unforeseen needs of tomorrow.

California Conservation Week, March 7 to 14, was originally established to help acquaint everyone with the need of protecting our great natural treasures. Conserving water power, timberlands, water sheds, fertile valleys and rangelands protects these gifts of nature not only for use in the war effort, but in peacetime, for ourselves and the generations to come.

Conservation Week calls for action as well as thought both during this week and throughout the entire year.

Kathleen Norris Says:

The Roving Husband

Hell Syndicate - WNU Features.

"What you have to do, Rhoda, is to get it through your head once and for all that you hold all the cards. Don't throw down your hand; call his bluff."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

EXACTLY how much hard, conscious effort are you making to keep your home atmosphere normal in this dreadful time? Exactly how clearly do you realize that extraordinary goodness and strength and unselfishness are being demanded of every one of us; that we are being given a test beyond anything our forbears ever knew?

We have to keep ourselves sane in a world gone insane, and preserve for those about us, and for the boys when they come home, something of the goodness and heroism and wisdom that has made America what she is.

Anyone who doesn't recognize the situation, and doesn't rise to it, is failing America just as much as if he were a sentry asleep at his post. But unfortunately there are a good many men and women who are drifting along in the old lazy way, making their concessions to the times only in complaints and protests against war inconveniences.

Here is the case of a husband and wife whose lives seem untouched by the world conflagration, but who are obviously suffering from the nervous strain that is over us all.

Rhoda is 37. She has been married 11 years, and has three daughters, 10, 9 and 3 years of age. The middle child is a polio case and will never be well. Rhoda's husband is a dentist, 40 years old, and formerly a devoted husband and father, especially close to Tanya, the handicapped child.

A Pretty Nurse.

But in the last year, Rhoda writes me, Lew has changed. He has grown irritable and silent at home, he is often away. The cause is a pretty grass widow of 26, who is a nurse in his office. There seems to be no question that Lew is infatuated, and while he doesn't talk of a divorce, Rhoda believes that is what he would ask if he dared.

"But he'd better not get that far," says Rhoda's letter. "It would ruin his practice in this town, where my father and mother are much beloved, and he could hardly establish himself anywhere else, for he is almost entirely deaf."

"I do all the work of my house, with the older girl's help. I bathe, feed, amuse my darling little invalid, and manage that my baby has plenty of fresh air. Washing, cooking, dusting, planning are all up to me; certainly I show the fatigue and weariness that I feel at night; I am human, I get tired, discouraged, impatient, nervous—I know it. But most of the time I am the mother the girls adore, and the cook and housekeeper that other women copy and consult."

"Mrs. Norris, Lew spends most of his money on this woman. He takes her home—two miles out of his way, every night, and often takes her out to dinner. They have been seen dancing. They have spent nights together at the Mountain Inn. His present to her this year was a squirrel coat; I have never had a fur coat. He sent me soap and perfume, and the girls toys and dresses; she picked them out, I

A CHANCE TO LET DOWN

The emotional stress of war affects everyone. Many find new strength, unsuspected courage when crisis comes. Others discover that the social upset gives them a chance to do what they've always secretly longed for, but refrained from because of public disapproval.

The 40-year-old dentist discussed in this issue is a case in point. He has developed a passion for his office nurse, a pretty divorcee of 26. She is going along with him, taking his presents and entertainment. His wife, Rhoda, writes that she is "desperate." She has thought of suicide. His coldness and cruelty are "driving her crazy."

suppose. He was away then, for four days, and I think she was with him, though his story to me was that she was sick, at her married sister's house.

"He seems a different person; he hardly seems sane. We have always loved each other; I feel as if I couldn't stand his complacency, his silences, his coldness and cruelty any longer. But what life do I make for myself, tired, feeling 20 years older than I am, with three children to raise on alimony? I've thought of suicide, I've thought of everything, I'm desperate. Tell me what to do."

What you have to do, Rhoda, is to get it through your head once and for all that you hold all the cards. Don't throw down your hand; call his bluff. Take the attitude that Dolly is being something of a fool—a generous fool, of course, but nevertheless a fool, to take up with a married man, partially deaf, with three children. Wake her up in the night every week, asking if Lew is there; some patient wants him. Make yourself over with a new frock and a changed hair-do.

Appear Happy.

Be happily busy and absorbed with your girls, almost rueful when Lew decides to come home for dinner. A pretty happy wife, in pretty lounging pajamas, laughing over a supper of milk-toast and cookies, with her children around her, is a mighty attractive thing on a cold night. Resolutely refuse a divorce.

Following these tactics you'll find yourself happy again, and happiness is the one thing that draws a man back. As he tires of Dolly's charms—they always do—yours will begin to gain on him. Then treat the whole thing as a sickness—a weakness, which it is, and go into a new relationship of confidence and affection with a changed man. To men these adventures on the side are not nearly as important as to their wives; he can have no respect for the complaisant Dolly, and what he does feel for her is not a lasting thing, as everyone knows.

Concede him this period of irresponsibility in a crazy world, and don't let it seriously jeopardize your lasting happiness and security.

Care of Wool Garments

Because the shock of freezing shrinks and hardens wool, it is usually best to dry woolen washables indoors in cold weather.

If wool clothes get wet or muddy, dry them slowly at room warmth, never close to a stove or radiator, and brush clean when dry.

When a wool garment gets a rest after a day or two of wear, the wool springs back and some wrinkles drop out, so less pressing is needed.

Be absorbed in your children...

Bill Corey Is Home From Aleutian Islands

After 15 rugged months of construction work in the Aleutians William (Bill) Corey is with his wife and small daughter at the family home in Alice avenue.

The son of Frank Corey of San Jose, Bill went through Campbell schools, graduating from high school in 1934.

Among his experiences in the far north was a narrow escape from death. Erecting a dock, he and several other workers were doing their stuff on the piers when a tug boat rammed the job and the pile driver crashed down, killing two men within four feet of Bill. Bill escaped with a few broken ribs.

Due to enter the service within the next twenty days, Corey told the Press reporter that he enjoyed his job in the frozen islands. He hopes the American public will wake up to the importance of the Aleutians, both as future outposts of national defense and peacetime stepping stones to Russia and the far east. "It will take a lot of the taxpayers' money," Bill said, "and many people won't be able to understand or justify the expense—but, take it from us who have been there—the program in the north is eminently worthwhile."

Sgt. Marshall's Air Group Gets Plaque

WITH AN AIR SERVICE SQUADRON OF THE 15th AIR FORCE SERVICE COMMAND, Italy—For outstanding service in support of combat operations, the Meritorious Service plaque has been awarded all members of an air service squadron of a service group of which Master Sgt. Edward A. Marshall, Rt. 2, Box 127, Campbell, is a member.

Servicing heavy bombers of the 15th Air Force in the hectic days when large scale daily missions were an absolute strategic necessity, the men of this squadron worked untiringly to keep an exceedingly high percentage of bombers on an operational status. Their efforts made it possible for our aircraft to strike hard blows at Nazi supply line and industrial targets.

All members of the squadron may now wear the Meritorious Service wreath on their right sleeves.

Orchard City Grange

At the last meeting of Orchard City Grange, with J. C. Jordon, Master, presiding, Harry Barnes of Campbell, state executive committeeman told of various measures now under discussion in the state legislature. And there were committee reports on marketing, gardening and orchard procedure for the coming season.

An instrumental trio from Campbell Union high school entertained delightfully with several selections. The players were Nina Page, Shirley Courtney and Claire Booker, featuring cello and violin.

A representative of Rye Tractor company showed motion pictures that were at once amusing and educational. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dahl and Mrs. A. C. Currie.

For next Tuesday evening, March 13, a pot luck dinner is announced for 6:30. Bring your own table service. An interesting program is being prepared to begin at 8 p. m.

Members of Legion Auxiliary Have Pot Luck Supper

The American Legion Auxiliary of Campbell entertained its Post members recently at the community club room, with a pot luck supper. About seventy enjoyed the occasion.

The next regular meeting of the unit will be held on March 14. The charter will be presented by Mrs. Lillie Brannaman, Dept. 1st vice-president of the 13th district. Mrs. Gladys Dower, president of the 13th district will also be present. A large class of new members will be initiated. The president, Mrs. Evald Fuller, has invited the heads of all the women's organizations of Campbell to be the unit's guests on this occasion. All members are urged to be present.

Friends Visit The Schwabs

Sunday afternoon friends and relatives called on Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Schwab at their home on San Tomas road to celebrate their 63rd wedding anniversary.

Sixty-three years ago on March 2, 1881, Mr. and Mrs. Schwab were married in Sutton, Nebr. After making their home near Clay Center, Neb., for 12 years they moved to Dos Palos, Calif. They later moved to Dinuba and Orange Cove near Fresno and for the last 12 years they have made their home here.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion by Mrs. Martin Carlson with lovely flowers from her garden. Other beautiful floral arrangements were brought by friends.

Mrs. H. Luke Warburton of Santa Clara brought a decorated anniversary cake, which in itself was a work of art.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwab's daughter, Frances Hill and her two daughters, Margaret and Frances of Los Angeles, and their daughter Luella Ryan were present for the occasion as was their grandson James W. Ryan, just returned from overseas action in the Pacific. Their other daughter, Mrs. Jack Stewart of Yuba City and their son Elmer of Dinuba were home recently to visit with their parents. Other recent visitors were their grandson Donald Schwab and wife. Donald has just returned from 18 months active service in the Pacific and is now stationed at Long Beach. Sgt. Charles J. Trammell and wife and little daughter Gail of Santa Maria were recent visitors also. Their grandson Stephen Henry Schwab is making plans to enlist in the Navy as soon as he reaches his 18th birthday on March 16. Mrs. Carl Zarcone of Fresno is their remaining grandchild. Her son, Ronnie is Mr. and Mrs. Schwab's only great grandson and little Gail Trammell is their only great granddaughter.

David Rutherford accompanied on the piano by his wife, delighted the guests with a group of appropriate songs which included "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," always presented at the anniversary of the Schwabs.

A beautiful ornamental shrub was planted in the Schwab's yard by a number of relatives and friends to remind them of this occasion.

Rebekahs Hold Regular Meeting

Ada Rebekah Lodge met Tuesday evening, March 6 with Helen Rice, noble grand, presiding. During the business meeting plans were made to serve at the USO June 14. Plans are also under way for a rummage sale to be held in the very near future. Anyone having any garments may leave them at the home of Lottie Rice, Rincon avenue.

The social hour was enjoyed by playing bingo. The committee for the evening was Anna Bachman, Ellen Arnold, Edith Morley, Evelyn Herford, Connie Hope and Flora Raab.

The next regular meeting will be March 20, with Lillian Ohlen, Josephine Gray, Anna Bachman, Helen Rice and Edith Morley serving on the committee. Dutch whist will be played during the social hour.

Club Cancels Convention

For the third consecutive year, Kiwanis International voted today to cancel its annual delegate wartime convention in line with Office of Defense Transportation regulations.

More than 2,250 clubs and 140,000 members throughout the United States and Canada will be affected by the decision, according to Ben Dean, Grand Rapids advertising executive and president of Kiwanis International.

Kiwanis was one of the first organizations to comply with an ODT request in 1943 to cancel large meetings and thus conserve travel facilities. Kiwanis conventions attracted 6,000 and 7,000 delegates in ordinary times, Dean said.

Victory Garden Chairmen Named

The goal for 1945 is 20,000,000 victory gardens in the nation, it was stated today by Chairman Harvey L. Hansen of the Santa Clara County Home Food Production committee. Santa Clara county must produce its fair share of these gardens, in order that our citizens may be well and nutritiously fed.

In order that each community can do a maximum job and get the most help, Hansen has named community chairmen. M. C. Ralston, teacher of agriculture and farm mechanics at the Campbell high school has been named for this district.

Emphasis is put on the fact that now is the time to plant the gardens in order to get maximum production for fresh consumption, and for preservation through canning, freezing or dehydrating.

Miss Marian Peake who holds a very responsible position in Washington, D. C., in the Production department of Chemical Warfare under Col. S. Chaney was home last week for a short visit with her mother, Mrs. Florine B. Peake. Miss Peake's work entails a great deal of travel and she has traversed the New England, Middle Atlantic and several of the Southern states. This time her duties brought her to San Francisco making possible a visit home.

A/C Reese Edgar Parker of San Jose, but a graduate of Campbell high school in the class of '42, recently finished primary training at the Navy Air Base at Memphis, Tenn., and is now receiving final training at Corpus Christi, Texas.

GARDEN
VICTORY

The time is here and the need is urgent for steady and serious work in your Victory Garden. Every bunch of vegetables and every bowl of berries and fruit you grow at home aids in the tremendous task of feeding the men and women who are fighting for us.

Let's do it again this year. Top the total of more than eight million tons of food grown in Victory gardens during the peak year of 1943. You will help food rationing. You will release more commercially grown and packed foods to our men and women in active service. You will help nourish back to health our men and women who lie in hospitals dreaming of their happy homecoming.

Dig hard, dig deep, dig often and keep a rotation of crops growing in your Garden for Victory. There is health and muscle tune-up in every spadeful of earth you turn over. There is nutritious good eating in every garden-fresh morsel of food you eat from your own garden. Plan—work—plant—now and keep at it.
